

An exciting opportunity has arisen to join the RS Sales Team. Our product range includes sailboats that are perfect for educational purposes and we require an experienced sail trainer to build on our current success in this sector.

Qualified to at least RYA SI or preferably Coach level with relevant experience, the likely candidate will be a keen dinghy sailor with an appreciation of all aspects of sail training. Reporting straight to the Sales Manager you will progress all activity which facilitates supply of RS dinghies to commercial sailing centres, sailing clubs and other institutions. A keen involvement in the RYA schemes and projects will be pivotal to this. A well presented and highly self motivated character will create lasting relationships with the key industry individuals and allow personal achievement in the sailboat and sail training environment.

Based from our Chandlers Ford headquarters, the role will involve frequent visits to venues across the UK to present the boats and discuss specifications required by individual centres. All the equipment to excel will be provided, including bespoke training, a vehicle, extensive shore and water based equipment, a range of demonstration boats and IT / comms tools to enable you to work effectively in the field.

An attractive salary package and an exciting host of benefits for a dinghy sailor are available. This prestigious role has attracted a high level of attention. Interviews will be invited following the receipt of a tailored CV which explains your skills and suitability for a unique opportunity to cement a lasting career in the small boat marine industry.

The closing date for applications is 26th June 2009
